

Log Your Weight

an Android App
designed by Kelly Walker

Initial Page (Settings)

The Settings screen is the first to appear when the app is opened for the first time. It uses a table to organize the necessary data; each of the first 3 sections allow the user to edit the section on this page, the last section takes the user to a separate page to choose between entering a new email or choosing an existing contact. A switch allows the user to choose between pounds or kilograms. The overall look and feel mimics the Android's own app design.

Default Recipient

The Default Recipient screen appears when the default recipient section on the Settings Screen is touched. The user has the option of making the default recipient themselves, an existing contact, or a new contact. If the user chooses themselves the check-mark changes to green to show their selection. If the user chooses one of the other two options, they are taken to a separate screen to make their selection. When the user is finished they can press the back button to save their information. This screen also shows the menu that can be seen at any time in the app by pressing the bottom menu button.

Log New Weight

Once the Settings are completed, the user is taken to the Log New Weight screen. This is also the screen that appears first on subsequent visits to the app. Here they have the option to choose the date for which they are recording and then select their weight for that day using a wheel. The date is automatically set to that day's date, but it can be changed by touching the table in which it is held, which takes the user to the Date Picker screen. When the user has completed the entry, they press the Save button to record the data and are then taken to the Log History screen.

Date Picker

The Date Picker screen allows the user to choose the date for which they would like to record their weight. It uses a simple wheel divided into 3 sections, month, day, and year, which is then recorded by pressing the Save button. If the user does not wish to change the date they can press the Back button to revert to the previous set date. This screen is accessed either through the Log New Weight screen or through the Edit Weight screen.

Log History

The Log History screen shows all previous weight entries. It is divided into weeks for easier reading. It is a continuous scroll of the entries, so to see previous entries the user simply flicks downwards to scroll up. At the bottom there is a bar which displays the total number of entries and the overall average weight recorded. The Share button takes the user to the Share screen where they can choose to email their results. The Edit button takes the user to the Edit Log History screen where they can delete or modify their entries.

Edit Log History

The Edit Log History screen allows the user to delete or modify their weight entries. To delete an entry the user presses the X sign to the left of the entry. To modify an entry the user presses the section of the entry, which takes them to the Edit Weight screen. When they are finished editing the user presses the back button to save the changes.

Edit Weight

The Edit Weight screen allows users to modify their previous weight entries. It is very similar to the Log New Weight screen, distinguished by the title in the top bar. To save the new information the user presses the Save button, to revert back to the previous entry the user presses Cancel.

Share

The Share screen is reached through the Log History screen. Users can choose to email either a day or a week by pressing on the white selection. This then takes them to the Share Recipients screen where they can select who they would like to share their entry with. The user can press the Back button to return to the Log History screen.

Share Recipients

The Share Recipients screen allows the user to email their weight entry. They can choose either their own email, the default recipient email, or to create a new contact, which takes them to the Create New Contact screen.

Create New Contact

The Create New Contact screen is divided into name and email sections which are all editable on this screen. The user can then choose to make this contact the default recipient by pressing the bottom section, which is shown to be selected with a green check mark. When the user has completed the information they will press Save to record. To cancel the entry the user will press Cancel.
